

The Life ROI Seminar Series

This 6-week seminar series is intentionally designed to answer some of the toughest questions we deal with in life.

- What is the definition of success in my life?
- How do I intentionally create a meaningful path to what I want in life?
- What makes me happy?
- How would I go about measuring my success and happiness in life?

In a world of materialistic and financial driven definitions of success, have you ever wondered or struggled with your own definition of success is in your life? We have been conditioned to believe that success is mainly achieved through how much money we make, what we bought with that money, how big your job title is, or how much authority comes with your job title. Is that all there is in life? Is that all you are, a dollar amount? Chief Whatever Officer, in charge of so many people?

I invite you to discover, define, analyze, strategize, practice, and measure what you would like to achieve in life. Your own definition, metric, and plan to intentionally increase a higher ROI in your life.
